BELLINGRATH GARDENS TOUR

The month of November rivals Spring at Bellingrath Gardens and Home with America's largest floral display of cascading chrysanthemums. There are floral displays every month of the year at Bellingrath.

Cascade chrysanthemums are used for the Gardens' breathtaking floral displays. Native to the Orient, this type of mum is used because of its vigorous growth rate and freely branching character. These two traits allow the plants to be trained into columns, hanging baskets, and cascades. Flowers range in color from shades of yellow, bronze, and red to softer shades of pink and white.

Unlike the typical garden mum, which most gardeners use in late September and October, cascade chrysanthemums don't come into their full glory until the month of November. For this reason, only those gardens in the Deep South can display these mums in outdoor settings.

Lunch served in the Magnolia Café is Lemon Pepper Chicken with potatoes and gravy or wild rice, Green Beans and coffee, tea or water. If anyone would prefer to have a sandwich rather than your lunch they may opt for one of these sandwiches: Ham, Turkey, Tuna Salad, Chicken Salad, Roast Beef, B.L.T. or Club. Sandwiches are served with chips, lettuce, tomato and pickle spear.

Tour includes the 10,500 square foot Bellingrath Home, the Rose Gardens, Asian-American Garden, formal garden terraces and Ecological Bayou Boardwalk. Transportation is a restroom equipped bus.
